

9/11: Finding the Truth - Andrew Johnson's Bombshell Book

On September 11, 2001, the world watched in horror as the Twin Towers of the World Trade Center collapsed. The official narrative of the events of that day is that they were carried out by 19 al-Qaeda terrorists who hijacked four airplanes and crashed them into the Twin Towers, the Pentagon, and a field in Shanksville, Pennsylvania.

However, many people believe that the official narrative is a lie. They believe that the U.S. government was involved in the attacks, either by allowing them to happen or by actively carrying them out. Andrew Johnson's book, 9/11: Finding the Truth, presents a compelling case for a government conspiracy.

The Evidence

Johnson's book is full of evidence to support his claims. He presents evidence that the government had foreknowledge of the attacks, that the hijackers were not able to carry out the attacks on their own, and that the government was involved in the execution of the attacks.

One of the most important pieces of evidence that Johnson presents is the fact that the government conducted a series of war games in the months leading up to the attacks that simulated a terrorist attack on the World Trade Center. These war games were so similar to the actual attacks that they could not have been a coincidence.

Johnson also presents evidence that the hijackers were not able to carry out the attacks on their own. He shows that the hijackers were not trained pilots and that they would not have been able to fly the planes into the Twin Towers and the Pentagon without assistance.

Finally, Johnson presents evidence that the government was involved in the execution of the attacks. He shows that the government had the means and the motive to carry out the attacks, and he presents evidence that government officials were involved in the planning and execution of the attacks.
