The New York Times

"American Rendering is a tour de force that captures the pulse of our nation. Doe's poems are a testament to the power of language to illuminate the hidden truths and profound contradictions of our society."

The Guardian

"Jane Doe is a fearless and visionary poet who confronts the complexities of American life head-on. Her poems are thought-provoking, moving, and ultimately hopeful."

American Dream

In this land of milk and honey, Where freedom's songs once rang, We chase the dream, like shadows chasing light, While darkness creeps upon the land.

The streets are paved with broken promises, And the air is thick with smoke, As dreams collide with reality's thorns, And the American spirit starts to choke.

But still, we cling to hope's frail thread, And search for light in the darkest night, For in the heart of this American dream, There lies a glimmer of redemption's light.

"American Rendering: New and Selected Poems" is a timely and essential collection that will resonate with readers of all backgrounds. Through her powerful words, Jane Doe invites us to reflect on the past, confront the present, and envision a more just and equitable future for our nation.

Dive into the depths of "American Rendering: New and Selected Poems" and experience the compelling voice of a poet who speaks for our time with wisdom, compassion, and an unwavering belief in the transformative power of poetry.
