Biography of Edgar Allan Poe

Edgar Allan Poe was born in Boston, Massachusetts, on January 19, 1809. His father, David Poe, was a lawyer, and his mother, Elizabeth Arnold Poe, was an actress. Poe's parents died when he was young, and he was raised by his foster parents, John and Frances Allan of Richmond, Virginia.

Poe attended the University of Virginia for one year, but he was forced to leave due to lack of funds. He then enlisted in the U.S. Army, but he was discharged after two years. Poe then moved to Baltimore, where he began his writing career.

Poe's early work was published in literary magazines, and he soon gained a reputation as a master of the short story. His stories are known for their dark and macabre themes, and their use of suspense and atmosphere. Poe also wrote a number of poems, which are known for their beauty and their exploration of the themes of love, loss, and death.

Poe's life was as tragic as his work. He was plagued by poverty and ill health, and he died at the age of 40 from mysterious circumstances. Poe's death has been the subject of much speculation, but the true cause of his death is unknown.
